

A holistic EPM approach—closing the gap between planning and performance

CLEARSLULTING AND PIGMENT

All too often, Finance, Operations, Sales, and Human Resources teams are under pressure to deliver quick insights and deeper foresight—yet many are stuck dealing with outdated tools that can't keep up.

As AI and predictive analytics redefine decision-making, and as market leaders embrace enhanced data integration and connected planning, the gap between static planning and strategic performance management is widening.

That's where we come in: bridging the gap by equipping your teams with the insights and agility to drive proactive, strategic decision-making—enabled by integrated business planning.

Our business-led, technology-enabled Pigment offerings

Pigment offers a different approach to EPM—a dynamic, AI-enabled platform that unlocks valuable insights from your data, empowering faster, more informed decisions.

But leading class technology isn't enough. You'll need to get the end-to-end implementation right. Here's how we can help:

Defining your roadmap: Together, we'll outline a clear, cross-functional roadmap for EPM modernization—grounded in your current state and built with a vision for where your business is headed.

Advising on scalable EPM solutions: We offer expert guidance across the full EPM spectrum—from financial consolidation and planning to platform setup and optimization—helping your team implement scalable solutions to meet your changing needs.

Implementing and integrating your new technology: We pair a white-glove service implementation of Pigment with a mind for change management—helping you achieve maximum adoption.

Sustaining ROI: Finally, we'll help you build long-term value by setting your team up for continued success—empowering you to drive future enhancements and scale as your needs evolve.

Why work with us?

Beyond helping you tackle your EPM needs, you'll also benefit from:

- An approach that factors in the impact across people, process, technology, and controls—tailoring a solution specific for you
- Deep experience across the office of the CFO and its wide toolkit of technologies and accelerators
- The right combination of resources, expertise, and methodology
- Collaboration that gives you a front-row seat, helping automate processes and free your people to focus on strategic, value-add activities
- A team that's been on both sides—as implementors and practitioners—and who is well-versed in industry-specific leading practice recommendations
